America is "uptight about student revolt", columnist Art Buchwald told an appreciative Phillips Academy audience Monday, and satire and humor are needed "to relax the uptight society."

The students agreed with the famous humorist. They had recently learned that amateur satire can go pretty far in an uptight society. Here's how:

campus takeovers, a PA 10th grader phoned in to a Boston newspaper Thursday a portentous report of literally true (but carefully selected) facts about a campus episode that evening.

The episode was actually an extraordinary after-supper tussle over a tired tennis ball, between some members of the two upper classes. The tussle had featured eleventh graders grabbing the ball, seniors chasing them into a dormitory, being repulsed by water-bombs and retreating to the library ("They occupied between 6 and 8 p.m.") for a ten-minute strategy conference on how to retrieve the tennis ball. The boy didn't mention that when the librarian asked the seniors to leave, they left.

At some point in the time-honored springtime festivities, perhaps when someone's pants were being hauled up the flagpole one of the more jocular of the faculty made a jesting threat ("Faculty members threatened voiding diplomas").

No one knows what happened to the tennis ball, but the Boston newspaper headlined to its readers

Tammany Honored As Employee Of The Year

Two men were singularly honored for their contributions to the community and former Town Manager Richard J. Bowen was presented with an award during the fifth annual Founders Day ceremonies Tuesday at the Bancroft school.

Patrolman William Tammany was presented the William W. Rhoads memorial award as employee of the year for his service to the town and particularly to its young people.

Walter Baker, a 50 year employee with the department of public works, received a watch from Water-Sewer Supt. Donald C. Bassett.

Bowen, who is now city manager in Portsmouth, N.H., was presented with a camera, from municipal employees and friends. He left the employ of the town last week, after having announced previously he would not be a candidate for reappointment when his contract expires in July.

Tammany has been a member of the police department for several years. He has served for many years as the town's safety officer, taking charge of the school patrols and the school children.

He was cited Tuesday for his singular interest in providing a

IRS Addition Bids Under Advisement

Bids on construction of an addition to the North Atlantic Internal Revenue Service Center on Lowell Street, are currently under consideration by the General Services Administration.

Franchi Brothers Construction Co., Wellesley Hills, has submitted the low base bid for the addition of two wings on the building. The proposal was $2,276,000. The planned expansion is to provide for the additional services to be undertaken by the Andover facility.

It is anticipated that with the addition and as early as next year, there will be 5,000 persons employed at the IRS center.

Bids on the addition were received in the fall but were rejected due to Congress negating funds for the project at that time.

Just when the contract will be awarded appears to be doubtful as of the moment since there are several alternates contained in the contract provisions, and federal officials will examine all before making the award.

The IRS center processes the Dave Bennett, Boston College's record-breaking halfback last fall, has been signed by the Baltimore Colts of the National Football league and his coach, Joe Yukica says, "I think he will make it in pro ball."

The son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett, 15 Woodcliff Road, was signed last week by the Baltimore club. He will be attending the club's rookie camp this Saturday.

Dog Officer To Begin Within Month

Implementation of the dog control law may take a while, but efforts toward acceding to the wishes of the annual town meeting are moving ahead.

Appointment of a full time dog officer was last week by the selectmen.

Donald V. Porter, 135 Chestnut St., the town's first full time dog officer, is expected to be on full time duty within the month.

There are still some problems to be resolved before the law actually can be placed into effect.

The new dog officer must give notice to his present employer. He must be provided with a truck, which will take some time due to bidding laws. He must be provided with a uniform, which as yet has not been provided.

Also the town is to provide a pound which will take probably two or three months to construct, according to Chairman Robert A. Watters of the selectmen.

Residents of the Chandler road area, which is planned for the location of the dog pound are resentful of the town's action in making the particular locale the home for stray canines.

It is anticipated that Porter will begin his work within the month.

He will work under Police Chief David L. Nicoll.

The selectmen will decide within the next week or two, the actual starting date for Porter.

Town meeting in March approved a Dog Control Law, which is somewhat more lenient than the leash law approved a year ago. The new regulation has not been approved as yet by the attorney general, but, regardless, the leash law is on the local books and must be enforced.

ON TOUR

Miss Mary Johnston, R.N., of 6 Gray Road, is spending the month of May in Scotland and England touring and visiting relatives.

formed about what to be working on prior to joining the training camp which will open in July.

B. C. Coach Yukica reports that Bennett will probably be a candidate for running back with the Baltimore club. He said that one of the assistant coaches visited with him and his assistants within the past few weeks and viewed films of the Andover youth's work last season, when he shattered several college records.

The Baltimore officials also conversed for some length with the coach and his staff about Bennett's abilities.

Yukica referred to the graduating griddier as "our bread and butter back."

He said that Bennett was, "an all around good young man, scholastically as well as in football. He did just everything great. He ran well, and he was a good pass receiver. In every way he was a great kid and I think he'll make it and do well in pro ball," Yukica said.

Bennett, on his way to breaking B. C. records, made the coach's freshman year at the helm as successful one - one of the best in recent years for the Eagles.

He broke the record for scoring the largest amount of touchdowns in a season and tied the three year scoring record of 25 TD's.

He gained nearly 800 yards rushing as compared to his junior year total of slightly over 100.

He also was the receiver on several pass plays, many leading to or scoring touchdowns.

Four Chosen To Attend Boys' State

Four Andover High School juniors have been selected to attend the annual Boys' State program to be held at the University of Massachusetts, June 21 through 28.

The program, which deals with operation of state and municipal government, will be attended by Stephen Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Cooper, 40 Dascomb Road; Christopher Doherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doherty, 11 Locke St.; Rodney Bentley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Bentley, 79 Dascomb Road and Richard Tasillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Tasillo, 58 Juniper Road.

The announcement was made by Arthur Coleman of American Legion Post 8, who has been the local chairman of the program for 24

Watters To Be In Office In Interim

Selectman Robert A. Watters is making himself available to municipal employees and the public during the period until a new town manager is appointed.

Watters, chairman of the board, announced this week that he will be in his office, Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

He met with department heads last Friday and advised that any problems should be discussed with Town Accountant Wendell Mattheson who is acting town manager.

Mattheson will serve through May 22 which is the formal termination date for Richard J. Bowen who is now city manager in Portsmouth, N.H. It is anticipated that Mattheson will be continued in that post until a new manager is appointed and begins his duties here.

There have been no applications received as yet for the town's top administrative post. Watters said there was a single inquiry and a request for the annual town report which has been forwarded to the potential candidate.

LAWRENCECIGAR WIELDING COLUMNIST Art Buchwald keeps them laughing as he chats with PA student Chuck McDermott, left, who once hauled him out of the Colorado River, and members of a seminar on satire at the home of PA teacher Thomas Regan.

next morning that "Phillips Students Seize Library". A local radio station picked up and aired the report for several hours on its news program that morning, a "two hour takeover", complete with police and threatening faculty.Perhaps satire is best left to professionals like Buchwald.Headmaster John M. Kemper, who had viewed the actual tennis-ball tussle with amusement, said of the news brouhaha: "Much ado about very little."Students shook their heads and chuckled "someone got took," but wondered "how do you know what's real and what's unreal?""It's getting harder and harder to tell," according to Art Buch-wald. He told an English seminar we're in a communications explosion and one of the problems is that news media, especially TV, are not only reporting the news but helping to create the news.He pointed to TV coverage of student takeovers, and said the "best action footage" is what is chosen for TV newscasts. Even a mini-takeover, evidently, is goodaction footage. "When I was in college," said Buchwald, we had plenty of leftwingers active, but no one paid any attention to them because they weren't on TV. Everybody's playing a role. TV coverage makes SDS types more important than they really are."Buchwald said he's become more conservative on this issue himself because "I'm against university takeovers, and against double standards of behavior, like something's all right on campus that's not all right off campus. I'm for freedom for everybody, not a minority dictating to the rest, and I'm against guns on campus". On Vietnam? "I'd like to see us get out. It's destroying this country."As a satirist, Buchwald says America has a short attention span, and right now the attention is all on students. He used to satirize the right wing, but now, says Buchwald, the left wing is getting ridiculous too, so he's satirizing them more.He misses Johnson, who was great satire and humor material.
Nixon, he bemoans, hasn't made enough mistakes yet. He tried one piece on Nixon after he'd been in office 5 days, and pointed out thatNixon was a flop, because the Mid-East was still in a mess. Nixon hadn't yet stopped the Vietnam War and none of the major problems solved. Would you believe it? He got piles of perfectly serious letters saying: "Give him time!"How did Art Buchwald happen to come to speak at Phillips Academy? Buchwald says its all because of a well-publicized rubber boat ride he took down the Colorado with the Robert Kennedys. PA student Charles McDermott, a neighbor, was along. The trip proved to be more exciting than planned and Buchwald fell in, near a whirlpool. Young McDermott pulled him back in the boat.Buchwald claims he gasped,
"You saved my life. What can I do for you?" and that McDermott immediately answered: "Talk at PA." No comment from Mc-Dermott.Buchwald, whose column appeared in the Paris Herald Tribune for 14 years before he returned to Washington, has a thrice-weekly syndicated column appearing in 450 newspapers.He says the goal of satire is to change society, but that he can't claim to have pushed it an inch.
The service humour and satire does render, he feels, is to take the pressure off an uptight society.

What remains to be said about Benjamin Franklin?

Insurance companies, magazines, sociologists, scholars, scientists, diplomats and businessmen all regard him as one of their own.

But Ben Franklin was a printer and newspaperman first, last and always.

Like so many newspaper publishers today—particularly publishers of weekly newspapers—he was apprenticed as a printer in the trade at an early age. At 24 he became sole owner of The Pennsylvania Gazette, the largest and most successful newspaper in the Colonies. Later he branched out into book and magazine publishing, started a chain of newspapers, and pioneered many publishing innovations (such as hiring newspaper correspondents) which have become common in the industry.

Ben Franklin always thought of himself as a printer and newspaperman. He never "lost touch" with the Pennsylvania Gazette. On his tombstone he directed that the words "Benjamin Franklin, printer . . ." be engraved. One of his many aphorisms about journalism still finds prominent place on the walls of newspaper offices: "That if all printers were determined not to print anything 'til they were sure it would offend nobody, there would be very little printed."

Ben Franklin proved that a newspaper run on sound business principles can both make money and perform a public service. He and his newspapers were basically different from earlier Colonial publishers and their newspapers. He made American journalism respected, a respect which found formal place in the First Amendment to our Constitution.

Franklin showed intelligent young men what they can do, in newspaper work. Ever since his time, newspapers have provided generations of young men with a rich and satisfying life.

These were Franklin's own words, for his epitaph:

"The body of Benjamin Franklin, printer (like the cover of an old book, its contents worn out, and strip of its lettering and gilding) lies here, food for worms! But the work itself shall not be lost, for it will, as he believed, appear once more in a new and more beautiful edition corrected and amended by its author."

Newspaper work is fast-moving and demanding. Those who have the background, brains and interest to keep up with it, find it to be—as H. L. Mencken said—a "three-ring circus." And newspapers today still serve as essential stepping-stones for those who later branch out into other related lines of work.

"King And I" Superlative

Color, clarity and grace marked superlative performances of "The King and I" by the high school last weekend.

Theodore Haykal and Ann Gaffney were perfectly magnificent as the King of Siam and Mrs. Anna, and they were backed by the acting, singing, dancing and choreography of an A-1 cast. There was never a moment in three and a half hours when the story line, the interest or the audience's involvement sagged.

The Rodgers and Hammerstein musical is a melodic song-fest, and this production was an eye-feast as well, with rich sets of professional artistry and oriental elegance, brilliant color in costuming, and the dancing a perfect delight. Makeup too played a larger role than usual in creating Siamese characters and the glistening "image" of Buddha in the "play within a play" was a tour de force. The swarms of the King's children added color, charm and life and deserve high praise.

More than 2400 saw performances on Friday, Saturday and Monday evenings, and gave standing ovations that were a tribute to the cast, to Director John Boyle, Edward Grigoli, Director of music and the orchestra, and everyone who had a part in the performances.

Ann Gaffney's voice was a clear, unstrained delight throughout, and was loveliest of all in "Hello Young Lovers."

Ann's every action and gesture, like her voice, were true throughout. Her cameo beauty helped her to completely merge with the role of the lovely and resolute Victorian schoolteacher. She charmed the audience.

Ted Haykal emanated force, arrogance, intelligence, and beneath it, the willingness to admit himself in a "puzzlement"—an earnest monarch caught between the ancient oriental and the modern western world. The audience responded wholeheartedly to Ted's King.

It is hard to know where to start in praising the supporting roles, as the depth of talent is so considerable. Patty Poremba and Frank Antonucci brought tenderness and urgency to their roles as young lovers. Patty was outstanding in her solos, and their duets were among the musical highlights of the show.

Winston Francisco showed the force of his dramatic talents as the Kralahome; he was frighteningly forceful. Kathleen Morrissey also deserves special praise in her convincing creation of the Lady Thiang, the quietly loving first wife who would have stepped aside for the English woman. She did a remarkable job.

The Prince, Stephen Tetrault, and Lawrence Bodge as Anna's son, played these young men's parts convincingly and the other supporting roles were capably filled.

Special mention must be made of the dancing, indeed of the whole episode of the "Small Cabin of Uncle Thomas." Lauren Von Duyke, who danced the role of Eliza, was choreographer for all the dancing and taught the other dancers the difficult oriental style of movement. Patty Poremba's narration and the imaginative masks and costumes made the "Small Cabin" a real show stopper.

Everyone connected with "The King and I" deserves high praise, and on the final night, just about everyone got it.

"GETTING TO KNOW YOU" is the theme of THE KING AND I. Lawrence Bodge, top right, and Ann Gaffney look dubious on arrival at Siam. In the middle picture they meet the King, Theodore Haykal, and behind him his first wife, played by Kathleen Morrissey. Bottom picture shows Ann Gaffney as the English school teacher getting to know all the King's children.

Redevelopment Director To Be Final Forum Speaker

Hale Champion, director of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, will be the final speaker in the four part Andover Forum. The topic of this series is: "Urban/Suburban Responsibilities: a two-way street." Mr. Champion speaks on May 11 at 8 p.m. at the Unitarian Universalist Church.

Prior to assuming his position with the Boston Redevelopment Authority in January of 1968 he served as California State Director of Finance, the top appointive post in that state's government, from 1961 to 1967. As director of finance, he had overall supervision of management and personnel, as well as fiscal matters and was chairman of the State Public Works Board and the State Lands Commission. During 1967, he was a Fellow of the Institute of Politics at the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University. He has also served as consultant or member for a number of federal task forces and national organizations, specializing in problems of governmental organization and inter-governmental relations.

Following his speech, and before opening the program to general questions from the audience, a panel of prominent Greater Lawrence citizens will comment and question Mr. Champion. Among the panel participants will be Richard Bowen, city manager for Portsmouth, N. H. and former manager of the town of Andover and William Finneran, selectman for the town of North Andover. The Rev. Richard M. Woodman, minister of the Unitarian Universalist Church of Andover, will be program moderator. The Andover Forum was organized by the Adult Education and Social Action committees of the church, with the purpose of bringing to the citizens of this area of the Merrimack Valley, prominent speakers on issues of significant concern. The series began on April 20 with Dr. Harvey Cox, author of the book The Secular City, as speaker. Miss Elma Lewis, founder and director of the Elma Lewis School of Fine Arts in Roxbury, spoke on April 27th and Dr. Neil V. Sullivan, Commissioner of Education for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, spoke on May 4th.

East Junior High Studies Problems

The Andover East Junior High school has just concluded its intensive study of alcohol, tobacco and drugs.

The film strip "To Smoke or Not to Smoke" of the American Cancer Society was presented to the ninth grade science classes several weeks ago followed by a class discussion on the components of tobacco and the physical effects of heavy smoking.

The relationship of teen-age drinking to social behavior, as well as physical and psychological aspects of alcoholism was explored through lectures and class discussions in both science and health classes.

Drug studies began with all grades watching the television series on Channel 2 "Drugs: Use and Abuse." This week all saw the Air Force film "Hang-Up" and heard Carmen DiAdamo, a prominent local lawyer, explain the relationship of drug use to the law. In addition, ninth grade science classes saw "Hooked" in which young former addicts told stories of how they became addicted, what they had to do to support their habits, the effects on families and friends, and their appraisals of the drug scene.

The Air Force film "Trip to Where" was offered after school to all who wished further information.

Principal Dorothy Partridge pointed out that although the formal study program on alcohol, tobacco and drugs was over, the school administration and faculty has a continuing interest and concern to inform and help its students in these areas.

She emphasized that the doors of health and science teachers, guidance officers and the principal are always open to students who have questions to ask, problems to solve, or just wish to discuss the problems aired by the formal study program on alcohol, tobacco and drugs.

Food Course By Red Cross

The 15-hour course will include a series of five classes of three hours each from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and will be conducted on five consecutive Tuesdays.

This course, given without charge, is primarily geared to train people in preparing and serving meals to volunteers and staff at bloodmobiles and serving light lunches to donors. Incorporated in the sessions will be meal planning, menus, food management and disaster mass feeding.

ABC Seniors Are Honored

Andover's ABC Committee Board of Directors last night honored the three Andover High School seniors in this community's A Better Chance Program for their fine records, pending graduation and success of their plans for college matriculation.

The achievements of the three seniors, Mark Ayers, Angel Dominguez and Clayton White, were celebrated by the board, the entire dormitory of ten ABC boys and Housemaster and Mrs. William Deacon after the monthly meeting of the board at the ABC House, 134 S. Main St.

Clayton will enter Bowdoin College in the fall, and Mark and Angel will be freshmen at Dartmouth College. All three have been consistent honor students at the high school and contributed to the success of the school's varsity athletic teams.

They entered as members of the junior class a year ago last September, when Andover became the second community in the nation to institute a community ABC Program. The purpose of the program is to give promising youngsters from educationally disadvantaged backgrounds the chance to live and go to school in communities with better educational opportunities. The theory is that both the ABC boys and the school community they join will benefit. This seems to have been the case in Andover.

Mark Ayers, from Springfield, Ohio has been an honor student since his second academic term at the high school. He developed as a varsity basketball player to the point where he is credited with helping the team reach the Tech Tourney this year. He is also a member of the varsity track squad and was a volunteer instructor in the pilot swimming program for elementary school students that the school department instituted in his junior year. He won early-decision entrance to

ABC House President

Dartmouth.

Angel Dominguez, of Puerto Rico and New York City, has been a consistent honor student with all sorts of outside activities. He has continued the rocket projects he began back in Puerto Rico, and is now negotiating with the government for static firing of a rocket he has fabricated in Andover. He is a photographer for high school sports and other events who has contributed photos to the school's IMPRINT, the yearbook and the Andover TOWNSMAN.

Angel serves on the committee that set up the high school's honor study program, and is credited with sparking soccer interest to the point that it will be a varsity sport at the high school next fall, when Angel is a Dartmouth freshman.

Clayton White of Marshall, Va., is the elected president of the ABC House in Andover. He lettered in fall cross-country and winter track and is running as a miler in the varsity track team this spring.

He spent last summer at Dartmouth College as a tutor in that college's ABC Summer Program, which prepares incoming ABC boys for matriculation in their new schools.

Clayton is an honor student who won early-decision entrance to Bowdoin College.

High School Seniors Visit IRS Center

A group of 25 Andover High school seniors visited the Internal Revenue Service Center on Lowell St., Tuesday, to see the huge facility in operation.

The students toured the transcription branch where there were 750 card punch operators at work and also saw the IRS computer room in action.

They were welcomed to the center by George Healy, chief of the data conversion division. A film showing the Service Center Operations was viewed and the group had lunch in the cafeteria.

Miss JoAnn Samra and Mrs. Marjory O'Dowd, teachers, accompanied the students. The group included: Barbara Burnham, Sue Lancaster, Margaret Dufresne, Vera Stanwood, Susan Devlin, Sandra Butcher, Susan Landry, Nancy Earley, Leslie Brownie, Helen Cormier, Ann Duke, Nancy Sanborn and Beverly O'Neil.

Also, Roberta Sheehan, Christine Harring, Judy Barr, Linda Penney, Elaine Talacco, Dianne Frederick, Phyllis Thomas, Kathy Dowd, Cheryl Birch, Sharon Nicoll, Jane Bayliss and Elizabeth McGurdy.

State Officials Commended For Relay Meet

Athletic Director Donald D. Dunn, in a letter to local coaches and state officials, has commended their activity in the conduct of the state class C relays held in Andover on April 26.

Dunn notes the staff and officials did an outstanding job and also makes mention of the excellent facilities available for the event.

His letter: "The organization and conduct of the Massachusetts Class 'C' Interscholastic Relay is deserving of commendation. The entire meet was well run with a minimum of confusion, considering the number of teams participating."

"Your staff and officials did an outstanding job. This brought much credit to the Andover school department and the town of Andover as it was a classic example of what can be done when excellent facilities are available."

"As Director of Athletics I would like to thank you, your coaching staff and the faithful officials who not only assisted with this Class 'C' event, but all of our other track meets, for a 'job well done.'"

People's Choice Season Finale

This Friday the People's Choice coffee house will present its final program of the season. It will be a summing up of concerns discussed over the year, such as: where is our foreign policy leading us in Vietnam, other parts of Asia and in Latin America?; what are the prospects for peace and disarmament; and what is the meaning of the turmoil on the campuses and in the cities?

Russell Johnson, Peace Secretary of the New England Regional office of the American Friends Service Committee will be the speaker. In 1968 Mr. Johnson made his tenth visit to southeast Asia speaking with, among others, the Cambodian Prime Minister, the chairman of the International Control Commission, representatives of the NLF, educators and teachers. He was in Hue and Saigon during the 1968 Tet offensive.

As a result of his participation in many international seminars all over the world and his long residence in southeast Asia, Mr. Johnson has become one of the best known and most knowledgeable "unofficial Americans" in that area, including both North and South Vietnam.

As an added attraction there will be a return visit of Jim Oesterreich and his partner Corinne singing folk songs to the accompaniment of their guitars. Mr. Oesterreich has previously spoken at the coffee house about the Resistance and its role in draft counseling and political education.

Suggestions and ideas for the fall coffee house will be entertained.

The People's Choice meets at the Unitarian Universalist Church on Lowell St. It opens at 8:30 p.m. Refreshments are available and the public is invited to attend.

Stephen A. Boland

Former Postmaster Succumbs

Stephen A. Boland, 76, 22 Orchard St., former postmaster, died suddenly Sunday at Lawrence General hospital.

He was postmaster here for 16 years prior to his retirement on March 15, 1961. He was a veteran of 46 years in the postal service.

He was a graduate of Punchard High school where he starred in football and baseball.

Mr. Boland began his postal career Dec. 20, 1915, receiving an appointment as a substitute carrier. He became a regular carrier July 1, 1920 and was transferred to clerk on Sept. 13 of that year.

He was named acting postmaster July 1, 1944. The late U.S. Senator David I. Walsh recommended his appointment as postmaster April 12, 1945. He was appointed by President Harry S. Truman.

Born in Everett Sept. 2, 1892, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Boland, he came to Andover as a young boy and attended Andover schools.

A veteran of World War I, he served in the U.S. Army with the 82nd Division in France for 14 months.

Mr. Boland was a charter member of Andover Council, No. 1078, Knights of Columbus. He was a member of the Bon Secours Men's Guild, Stonehill College Century Club and the Holy Name Society of St. Augustine's Church.

The only survivor is his wife, the former Marie J. Daley.

The funeral was held Wednesday from the Lane Funeral Home, 68 Park St., with a requiem high Mass at 10 a.m. in St. Augustine's Church. Burial was in St. Augustine's Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to Bon Secours Hospital or the Northeast Chapter of the Heart Association, 4 Haverhill St., Andover.

Volunteers Needed At State Hospital

The Volunteer Services Committee met recently at Danvers State Hospital.

This committee represents all volunteers who give their time at the hospital in the interest of the many patients under treatment there. The meetings provide an opportunity for communication between volunteers and nearly every hospital group: administrative, medical, nursing and the clergy. Here the volunteer can learn in what areas he or she can be of service to patients.

Previous to the Volunteer Services Committee meeting, all volunteers had been requested to send in by mail, their suggestions for facilitating their own efforts and those of novice volunteers. The replies were most gratifying. The Committee will be extremely busy in its year-long project to follow up these suggestions.

New England Needs More Electric Power

New England Electric System Chairman William Webster reported to the company's shareholders at their annual meeting that "recent trends have indicated that we have to plan on an eight percent annual electric load growth instead of the six percent which seemed adequate a short while ago" and that this would call for construction of additional power sources.

The company reported first quarter earnings of 61 cents per share as compared with 63 cents per share in 1968 but added that except for the destructive snow storms in the early months earnings would have been somewhat higher.

President Robert F. Krause said that he expected 1969 will be a good year for New England Electric. He reported that electric load growth continues strong, up 6.9 percent for the first three months over the comparable period in 1968. Plus factors cited included the pending operation of a new, efficient 650,000 kilowatt generating unit at Brayton Point, the shift from coal to oil as fuel for generating electricity with a substantial savings resulting and the continuing success of an aggressive merchandising campaign.

Per share earnings of the company in 1968 were $1.94 vs. $1.93 earned in 1967 but kilowatthour sales were up 9.3 percent and revenues from these sales were up 6.7 percent. Gas revenues were up 4.5 percent reflecting warmer weather during the year. Negative factors affecting earnings in 1968 included the 10 percent Federal surtax, an increase of 8.5 percent in local property taxes, a six percent wage and fringe benefit increase, a $2 million electric rate reduction for customers and the substantially increased cost of money.

President Krause reported that construction expenditures for 1969 are expected to be $79 million compared with the record level of $90 million in 1968. The shareholders were told no equity financing was planned for 1969.

P.A. Teams Successful

Phillips Academy athletic teams have compiled successful records at the season's midway mark. The golfers own a 2-1 record in dual meets and are in second place after one round of play in the annual round-robin with Exeter and Governor Dummer. The lone loss was a heartbreaking 11-10 decision at Winchendon School.

The rapidly improving baseball team has won two out of four games and lost a potential victory over the Harvard Frosh due to a washout in the fifth inning.

The lacrosse team, with An-dover's Cobber Eccles a leading goal scorer, is again heading for a New England championship.
Their record is 4-1.

Pete Sorota, son of Coach Steve, dominates the track team in total individual scoring with 36 points in just four meets. The tennis squad stands at 2-1 and is filled with talent.

At midseason, all Andover teams are off to successful seasons despite the many bad-weather cancellations. The forecasts are that the squads will carry good won-lost records into the traditional Exeter contests. At this juncture, all teams seem to be good bets to defeat their arch-rivals at seasons end.

It's Her Day

First, she was a child with her dolls and playing house, oblivious to the fact that she was already learning her future role.

Then she grew, matured, worked in the domestic arts department around the home and gradually learned the things she one day would be responsible for.

That big day came, when as a bride, she was dressed in elegant white and was the center of attraction.

Eventually she nurtured life within her, suffering the pains and pangs of bringing new life into the world.

She now became a woman of many talents.

She was the one who nursed the childhood ills.

She provided the meals morning, noon and night.

She was the disciplinarian, who with a reluctant thrust to the posterior of a young one, brought him back in line and with that thrust made him respect law and order.

She was the lady of the house who patched the clothes, sewed the buttons and took pride in making sure the youngsters were neat in appearance.

That same woman was the relief valve for the man of the house who came home after a difficult day at work and listened to all the problems of the office, plant, or store.

Her nerves were often shattered by a son serving in a war zone, in our time, but she failed to let it show.

These are the qualifications which lead to a quite important title — mother.

She should be treated like a queen year 'round, but Sunday is her day.

That single day should be regal.

Walter Baker

Seldom does a community have the opportunity to salute a person whose laudatory accomplishments have meant so much to the progress of the town.

Such was the occasion Tuesday night when Walter Baker, a 50-year member of the board of public works was honored.

Mr. Baker probably knows the underground location of every sewer and water pipe in Andover.

After one-half century of service to the town, it was commendable that he be named.

During that span, Walter has never failed to be of service to the community. In the cold of winter, when sub-zero temperatures frosted any entrance to the outdoors, Walter Baker was in a ditch repairing a water main.

In the heat of summer, when the sweat rolls off the average person just sitting in the backyard, Walter Baker was on the job repairing a sewer problem — not the most pleasant under such circumstances.

Knowledgeable about the utilities of the town, he has always been extremely interested in his community and willing to lend a hand.

We feel it would be a problem to run the water and sewer department without him.

Further, we salute him as the employee of the year — an award well deserved and well earned.

The Andover Grange recently purchased a most desirable building near the West Parish church. Slight fire causes minor damage at Smith Hall on the Abbot Academy campus.

Andover town hall crowded as the governor is a guest of the Gen. W. F. Bartlett G.A.R. post reception to him. Hall is very prettily decorated for the event.

The board of fire engineers and the members of the department are at loggerheads. The engineers this year will make appointments, rather than by general election as has been the case in past years.

50 Years Ago — May, 1919

The annual May breakfast held in the town house was a big success. It was held from 5:30 until nearly after 9 a.m.

Peabody House, Phillips Academy will be the scene of a faculty reception for members of the faculty who have returned from the service.

Punchard alumni plan for rousing welcome home celebration for men returning from the great war.

The annual bird walk of the Natural History Society was held this week with a large number of members attending.

Many people plan to attend the Red Arrow Minstrel show in Merrimack Hall, North Andover, since many Andover people are participating.

meeting awards contract for coal and also for several summer repair projects.

The American Legion Bugle and Drum corps will rehearse for its participation in the Memorial Day parade.

All attention at Abbot Academy is focused on the observance of its birthday scheduled for a gala affair on Saturday.

School children engaged in a project to rid the town of caterpillars. Andover Village Improvement Society has offered 10 cents for each belt of 100 tent caterpillar eggs.

The Board of Health has scheduled a dog clinic at the Main street garage in Shawsheen for Saturday.

10 Years Ago — May, 1959

Thomas E. Duff of Claremont, N. H. is unanimously named Andover's first town manager at a salary of $11,000.

Bridge over Shawsheen river in Ballardvale will be closed as of Monday as the state reconstructs the span.

Selectmen prepare to tackle full agenda mostly dealing with gravel pits. Strict controls anticipated due to removal of earth in town for construction of Route 93.

The grass plot in Shawsheen square in front of the Woodworth home is to remain a memorial park and may not be used as a playground, town counsel advises the selectmen.

Andover Taxpayers Association offers assistance to obtain quorum for special town meeting in order that the town can withdraw from the proposed mosquito control district.

Off The Top Of The Desk

The girls at Andover High school are in desperate need. They have formed a golf club, but unfortunately have no golf clubs. Anyone wishing to dispose of any old golf clubs should advise Chris Chapman or Jane Perdue.

Advisory to the fellow who just missed a short putt—think twice before volunteering, but the girls will appreciate any assistance.

We are indebted to a tip from a local resident with regard to a couple of birds building a nest in a mail box on Chandler Road. Unfortunately by the time our photographer arrived on the scene, a youngster had removed the tenants.

Arriving and examining the area for the location of the nest, the youngster with a baseball bouncing in his hand, said "you looking for something mister?" When we said we were looking for a bird's nest in a mail box, he replied, "I just threw it out because the mail box belongs to the people in that house," pointing to an adjacent residence.

One of the prettiest trees this time of year is the Magnolia which sprouts forth its blossoms in abundance quickly. Its beauty, however, is short lived, since it is delicate and a solid rain storm, or substantial wind will soon dissipate the blossoms.

The Red Sox certainly don't worry about the possibility of encountering unpopular opinion when making personnel changes. First it was the Ken Harrelson "The Hawk" trade, which upset many fans, and now they have sent Billy Conigliaro down to the minors after a fairly good start.

The younger brother of comebacking Tony C... was sent out Sunday after the club picked up another utility felder. Just guessing, we are thinking that Billy C. will be worked at first base in Louisville in preparation toward bringing his bat and glove back to Boston either later this season or next year, at the infield position.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

By W. A. Leavell, Ph. D.

It is not unfair to say that what future this great country has depends on its youth. Our generation and the generations passed on, have not left a perfect system but they have not done so badly by those whose time is yet to come. If nothing else, we fought for, won and have defended the rights of those still unborn to determine their own future. This is not the case in most of the world.

When anything raises its ugly head and threatens to destroy our youth, and our system of government, it threatens the very future of the free world. The present trouble in our educational system is just such a threat. It is as real as Hitler was and the many other dangers our country has faced and fought over the years.

This trouble, and the different concept of education some of the students have, can be summed up in a poem a reader sent me recently.

When I was a student,
I was quiet,
I didn't protest,
I didn't riot,
I wasn't unwashed,
I wasn't obscene,
I made no demands
Of prexy or dean.
I sat in no sit-in,
I heckled no speaker,
I broke not a window,
Few students were meeker,
I'm forced to admit,
With some hesitation,
All I got out of school
Was an education!

Unless someone has been pulling my leg, our educational system is supposed to be based on the EDUCATION of our young people. When our experiment in mass education was started many years ago, it was intended to make it possible for every person who wanted and who deserved an education could achieve it. When the older generations were sold the noble project and the tax structure to support it, no one ever dreamed some young people would one day use the facilities to try to destroy our system of government or at least bend it to please the wild dreams of flaming youths who have yet to contribute to the system that made it possible for them to grow up free.

The schools do not belong to the youth or to any "New" ideology. They belong to those of us who have paid the taxes, made the contributions and who have otherwise made them possible. They are only entrusted to the youths while they pass thru them and then go on to join the tax paying ranks who will pay for the next group going thru.

Since the majority of students want an education, the older generations have a continuing obligation to protect this group from the irresponsible radicals who want to use the facilities to ferment trouble.

How many of the new trouble makers are attending college under earned scholarships? Few if any. How many of this new breed are working their way thru? Few, if any. How many of the young rebels are students of engineering, medicine, law, physics or chemistry? Few, if any. How many of the few who would destroy what our forefathers have built are honor students? Few, if any.

We owe the serious students more than a campus torn by violence. We owe them an academic environment conducive to study and learning.

If a few must be removed from the campus, both students and faculty, in order to fulfill our obligation to the many students who want and who deserve an education then in the interest of our future, they must be removed!

If, as it would seem, a few violent students and faculty wish to dedicate their lives to the destruction of our system, then let them do so under the protection that our constitution allows for legal dissent but get them out and keep them out of the educational system our tax money has bought and continues to pay for.

As taxpayers, ask us to pay the ever increasing bill for education but as responsible citizens do not ask us to finance those who would destroy us!

All the sad young men
Choking on their youth Trying to be brave
Running from the truth.

Let's act now to protect our educational system before it is too late! Let's change the cry from BURN, BURN . . . to one of LEARN, LEARN."

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN

Andover cannot afford to overlook any possibilities that might ease the burdens that its past actions at town meeting have imposed upon its future. And one good possibility is to have new town manager candidates give tangible indication of their awareness of our prevailing problems together with their attitude toward them in addition to the normal tests of competence.

It is suggested that candidates be required to give detailed description of their evaluation of the following situations concerning Andover together with their proposed solutions:

1. The present and prospective debt composition of the town, its costs and future managements;

2. The day to day operation of the town dump so as to accomplish landfill operation keeping in mind that as more fill is used as cover, the sooner the dump shall have to be expanded and then retired;

3. Expanding sources of revenue produced by activities within the town as well as increasing present income from sources of similar activity;

4. General review of the town's operating by-laws, including its Charter section, with recommendations and reasons for modifications, if any;

5. Advantages and disadvantages of apartment development in Andover;

6. Changing the town's fiscal year from the present calendar year to the period of July 1 to June 30 so as to coincide with that of state and national governments as well as with local school activities and prevent revenue arriving before the year is half gone;

7. Advantages and disadvantages to Andover of Representative Town Meeting;

8. Collecting escrow real estate "taxes" held by banks at least twice a year.

An additional benefit of the above method for choosing the next manager is to give him ample warning that the job being offered has much that should be corrected as trip to Washington, D.C. for 12 safety patrol leaders who participate in a trip down Pennsylvania Avenue, along with a visit to historic sites in the nation's capitol. In addition to serving as safety officer and other police activity, Tammany has done considerable artist work and has been successful in drawing replicas of criminals which have led to the arrest and conviction of law breakers.

SERVICE CITED. Walter Baker, who has served the town for 50 years in the public works department, was honored Tuesday night during Founders' day ceremonies at the Bancroft school. Donald C. Bassett, left, presented the long-time employee with a watch.

Baker was presented with a watch by Supt. Bassett, who paid tribute to the man who has devoted 50 years of service to the town. It was the first time in the history of the Founders Day program, that an employee had been honored for a half century of service.

Bassett noted the interest that Baker has had in the department over the several years. He commented on his willingness to be of service to the town, despite the adversities of weather, or the time of day or night.

He noted the employee's interest in hunting, fishing, and photography in his spare time, but noted his availability to the town at all times.

Deputy Fire Chief Albert Cole, Jr., was the toastmaster for the occasion which afforded many a first look at the new Bancroft school.

Very Rev. Kenneth J. Kennedy, O.S.A., pastor of St. Augustine's parish gave the invocation and Rev. Charles A. Fowlie, minister of Ballard Vale United church gave the benediction.

Selectmen William Stewart led the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Chairman Robert A. Watters of the board of selectmen, gave a brief address and presented Bowen with the award.

Selectman Roger W. Collins presented the Rhoads award to Patrolman Tammany.

Selectman Phillip K. Allen presented the certificates of service to members of municipal committees and boards who have retired from service.

Awarding of the pins for the years of service were made by members of the school committee and the board of selectmen.

Founders' Day was instituted five years ago to make the incorporation of the town on May 6, 1646, and to pay tribute to employees of the community who have contributed in excess of ten years of service.

Founders' Day pins were presented to the following:

25 year pins - Louise B. McQuestion, Ruth Westcott.

A Lifeguard In Vietnam

Like a duck takes to water, so does Specialist Four (SP4) Franklin Harrison, chief lifeguard at the Chau Lai, Vietnam, USO Beach. SP4 Harrison, or "Duck" as he is known to the other lifeguards, was a scout dog handler with the Americal Division's 59th Scout Dog Platoon at Duc Pho before wading into his present job in the lifeguard's watchtower.

The Indiana State University graduate and former swimming instructor is quite pleased to have landed such a job as a lifeguard in Vietnam.

"When I heard about the beach at Chu Lai," Harrison stated, "I decided that I would like to become a lifeguard. Counting on my past experience as a swimming instructor to meet the standards set by the American Red Cross to qualify as a lifeguard, I requested to be stationed at Chu Lai. "As a result of the rough water and strong currents off the coast, most of the rescues we make are made with the aid of a surfboard," he explained. "Another advantage of using a surfboard is that if a person is unconscious, we can place him on the surfboard and paddle back into shore, rather than fight the current and possibly lose the individual."

"Life on the beach is not without its humorous moments," Harrison continued. "Occasionally, a Red Cross girl or a nurse will come to the beach to sun bathe. A swimmer that has gone out too far or is tired, will struggle to overcome the current and make it to shore on his own, rather than 'blow his cool' in the eyes of the young lady," Harrison said.

"When this happens," the lifeguard chuckled, "we get a surfboard and swim out to ask the hapless individual if he would care for a ride back to shore."

"It sure is a great job," Harrison admitted, "but to keep in shape, we have to jog a quarter of a mile each morning. Then when we get bored we usually drop and 'knock out a few pushups'. All in all, being a lifeguard in Chu Lai is certainly better than 'beating the boonies'."

Libby Promoted In Army Post

Robert J. Libby, son of Mrs. Clara L. Libby, 114 North Main St., was promoted March 28 to Army specialist four at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Washington, D.C.

The 24 year-old soldier graduated from Andover High school in 1963, and received his B.A. degree from Northeastern University, Boston, in 1967, and was employed by Radio Corporation of America, Bedford, before entering the Army.

His father, Harold E. Libby, lives at 253 South Union St., Lawrence.

Sediment

When a pharmacist picks up a bottle containing a liquid preparation, he may sometimes note that some of the ingredients have settled to the bottom.

That's how the word "sediment" was born. It literally refers to the settling down process—being derived from the Latin word sedere which means "to sit down" or "to settle down."

Interior Designing is a skill. It is a composite of education in the subject, an inborn taste and access to resources applying the elements to create the "just right" atmosphere which exists in a home tastefully done.

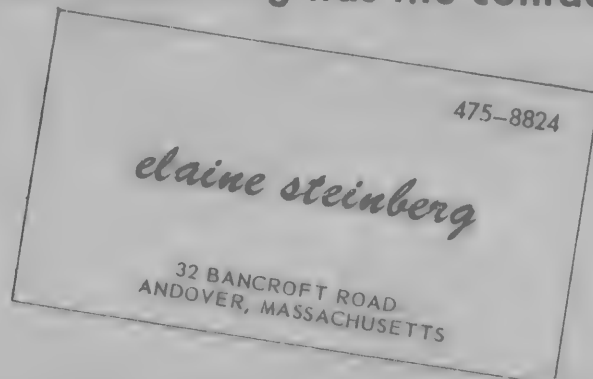

elaine steinberg is a specialist!

Cost consideration is basic. The results and their cost pivot on the designer's originality, broad background in the business and experience with supply sources. Prime consideration must be given to working around pieces already in the home or room as the case may be, minimizing the total expenditure without stinting on the results.

elaine steinberg does just that!

Sensing the personality of the clients involved and capturing it in home design is the art of the true designer. Additionally, personal contacts and purchasing power insure prompt service, delivery and installation in an age of postponements.

well as what has to be determined with respect to the present and future. The Selectmen owe to the voters to be not less for, and open handed.

Karl Haartz
60 High Plain Road

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN
Your April 24 editorial entitled "Campus Revolt" began with the remark "we must give serious attention to the continued revolt and unrest on college campuses." May I respectfully submit that your editorial itself, shows little, if any, evidence of serious or objective attention to this critical social problem.

To become emotional and irrational over this issue, as you have, is hardly in keeping with meaningful editorializing and can only perpetuate the very attitude under protest. You express your feelings with words such as "dissident", "frightening", "lazy", "dirty", "long-haired", "unpatriotic", and "foolishness." What do these words serve except to block any intelligent exploration of the problem. Indeed, the only relevant point, and the one you should consider, is that campus revolt is not a problem at all but a symptom. And, the real problem or cause is more under our control here in our community, our schools, and out homes than is the symptom of which you speak.

You are entirely correct when you say that "awareness is not enough." But, you assume we have adequate and proper awareness. We don't. And, we're making ourselves aware of the wrong thing. Awareness is important because it effects attitudes and we won't prepare for anything without a positive attitude. Based on your approach, I wouldn't dare ask you what you mean by "preparedness" as used in your editorial. Because your warning is couched in the context of emotionalism, it sounds as though you yourself want to revolt. I share your tendency to do something, but let's do the right thing.

May I suggest that as an important source of public influence you make the attempt to approach objectivity on this issue by:

1. Commenting on the expressed attitudes of the Presidents of the schools directly involved. Give the Administrations - the Institutions - point of view candidly and accurately. I think you will find that they are, by-and-large, handling the situation in an intelligent way and that they recognize the "two way street" which exists.

2. Citing the underlying reasons for the behavior of the students. You can consult any professional psychologist, psychiatrist or sociologist and you'll turn up words such as psychotic, pathological, pressure, double standards, autocratic power and unresponsiveness - words which should have considerable significance to all concerned.

3. Stressing the specific work we all need to do to change our institutions to meet the new demands of a new generation.

You should have a great deal to say about how we in Andover can begin and you can make a direct contribution by developing socially relevant recommendations for action and then by getting that action under way.

The warning should be not that revolts have happened or can happen in Andover, but that the things which cause revolts are happening here. They may be the same things which cause our dope problem, our crime, our racial prejudice, the exodus from the churches and so on. Don't you think that you have anything to say and do about these? Congratulations on your increasing circulation. You can print this, if you have the mind to.

Students Combine To Build School For Peace Corps

Last year, students of Andover High school and Phillips Academy together, joined the Peace Corps Partnership Program, and raised over $500 through a folk-rock concert and gifts.

This year, because of that partnership and that money, a school stands in Ingolagondi, in the state of Mysore, India, where there was none before.

The school was built by Jan. 30, and is now full and operating under Indian teachers, thanks to the efforts of Peace Corps Volunteer Geoffrey Walser, who helped finish the school and is working in the Indian village.

The two Andover schools are planning to continue in the Peace Corps Partnership, and Abbot Academy is joining them this year. Their aims are to continue support of the school in Ingolagondi, help the Peace Corps build more schools, and bring Andover's three secondary schools closer together through additional cooperative projects.

They plan a second folk-rock concert to benefit the Peace Corps Partnership Program, and hope it will be an annual event. The concert will be held on May 25, in PA's George Washington Hall. The concert will feature talent from all three schools.

Committees from all three schools have met several times to plan the money-raising concert, and discuss other areas where the three schools can cooperate, in sports, joint meetings of similar clubs, and some day exchanges of students in classes. Abbot girls are also planning to invite girls from the high school to teas with the idea of getting to know each other better. Steve Bull pointed out that there used to be some animosity between the schools, not unusual since students didn't know each other at all. "When you work on something together, you get to know each other, and you get positive instead of negative attitudes." Members of the planning committees are Peter Olney, Phil Santucci and Jeff Claus of PA, Diane DesRoches, Douglas Hamilton, Jimmy Gillan and Steve Bull of the high school, and Carol Nimack, Elaine Giblin and Anne Cashin of Abbot Academy.

Spring has finally arrived. The hockey and professional basketball seasons concluded this week. With regard to the professional basketball season, player-coach Bill Russell of the world champion Boston Celtics was asked recently if the season was too long. He replied that he didn't really know and added that when training started, automobile convertible tops were down and when it ended they also were down, so draw your own conclusions.
